

Will Boys Club Include Elks Bar?

An appeal by the 300 member recently formed Elks Club, to take over a portion of the Placentia Boys Club for use as a Lodge Hall with a commercial bar, was denied last week on a split vote of the Placentia Planning Commission.

The proposal, fervently addressed by Elks Club members would use a portion of the large unfinished Boys Club facility at 132 East Crowther Avenue.

Contingent on the arrangement was that the Elks be allowed to operate a bar six nights a week from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. However, there was an indication at the hearing that the Elks are seeking the maximum hours of operation for possible later use.

Addressing the request for the arrangement was Robert E. Davis, Exalted Ruler of the Elks Lodge, who also is a member of the Boys Club Board.

Davis also is a candidate for city council in the upcoming April 13 election.

Davis explained to commissioners that the Elks had considered the problem of having liquor on the premises of a Boys Club.

In explaining security measures of the Elks, Davis detailed: "You have to be 21 and have an identification card. The doors are locked and remain controlled. They can't get in unless they force their way in," Davis explained.

Davis outlined further that "We do have a signed lease with the Boys Club Board of Directors for three years with an option to rent a fourth year. It is a temporary operation."

"The lease is currently at the Chapman Foundation. Since they own the property, we have asked them to sign the lease."

"I am a director of the Boys Club also so I can speak to both sides of the issue here tonight," Davis continued. "The Boys Club is in financial problems over there. We are having difficulty getting funds. Our membership is dwindling. We have roughly over 300 boys participate over a week's time at this Boys Club."

The Placentia Courier however, had difficulty in finding any appreciable number of Boys Club members. In a minimal Thursday, Friday, Saturday one time a day check, there were no boys one day; three another and five another.

Butch Perrott, executive director of the Placentia Boys Club, says that he has resigned his position over some of the problems at the club and is seeking other employment.

This was confirmed by Newport Beach attorney, Hugh Swanson, who has offices in Placentia and is currently president of the Boys Club board.

Swanson also a member of the Elks Club Board but recently resigned from that position to represent the Boys Club. He said however, that he is still an Elk and is not precluded from returning to that board at a later date.

Swanson said that he is one of the Boys Club board who has signed the Elks lease.

Also addressing the planning commission on behalf of the Elks was Robert G. Ryland, Placentia resident and an attorney whose offices are in the same legal office complex as Swanson's, at the corner of Valencia Avenue and Yorba Linda Boulevard in Placentia.

Ryland told planning commissioners that the directors of the Boys Club are very dedicated people and that in executing the lease "foremost in their minds was we don't want children and booze mixing. And we have the signatures of four trustees from the Elks who agreed."

"I can't talk to you about what happened at our secret membership meetings," Ryland continued, "but we did talk about children," the attorney stated.

"There are eight members of the Boys Club who feel this is in the Boys Club best interest and in the interest of the youth. We have one member of the directors of the Boys Club who resigned as a trustee of the Elks so that he could sit on the side of the Boys Club as a director and extract out of the Elks what's best for the boys. That's documented in the minutes of both of our boards."

"How are the Boys going to benefit? Obviously the Elks are going to benefit because this gives us a

A Closer Look

The Placentia Courier two years ago, became the first newspaper in this area, weekly or daily, to personally interview each candidate for the city council.

The policy was continued through the school board election. This week begins interviews of the ten men and women who are seeking three seats on the Placentia City Council...a number that constitutes a majority.

In the interviews, we will attempt to ask pertinent questions concerning the candidates stands on important issues facing the city. We also will ask for personal information that might affect voting policies and philosophy of government.

We hope that all Placentia voters will avail themselves of the opportunity to read this series and that all citizens will attend candidate nights and ask candidates the questions that need to be asked.

One candidate's night is scheduled for the Whitten Community Center on Melrose Street, near La Jolla Road at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 11.

Another will be sponsored by the Placentia Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 1 at the Backs Building. Others may be arranged.

As Placentia enters a new phase in her growth and development the interest of every citizen is beneficial in contributing to the solutions of the years ahead.

There are problems of government structure, completion of the city, density, services, and the high cost of services and taxes. And many others citizens will want to consider at the ballot box.

The numbers of us who cast our ballots on April 13 can only help. Apathy will not elect the candidates best equipped to make decisions on our behalf. Nor will our indifference. Candidates who feel they have a mandate from the people without our conveying to them our concerns, would understandably feel some security in paying little attention to us once they are elected.

The Courier will be looking for candidates of honesty, meaningful skills and abilities and the special ingredients of personal interest and responsiveness to the people. Also for those candidates who will take on the sometimes unpleasant job of seeing that we get our money's worth.

We invite the impressive list of candidates to speak freely.

Candidate Bircher Offers Experience

Nominated by three members of the present city council, Robert Bircher, a native of Yorba Linda and a manufacturing manager for a sheet metal fabricating company in Santa Ana, will be making a strong bid for a seat on the Placentia City Council.

Bircher will be running on his expertise and contributions he has made in five years of service on the city planning commission, part of that time as chairman.

Within this experience are decisions he has made on a variety of planning matters and involving public input. He recalls as important, "the experience I've had in writing ordinances, revising the general plan, public hearings, working with the public and taking their input into consideration in my decisions."

Among those supporting Bircher are councilman Robert Langer and Mrs. Langer; former mayor Robert Finner; library board member Fred Aguirre, councilman Jack Gomez, former mayor and library trustee Vic Michel, school board trustee, Jean Pappas; library board member Irene Czapinski; Mayor Robert Lyons and a host of other well known names.

Bircher, whose wife Lilly is a member of the city's Recreation and Parks Commission, met his pretty red haired wife when both were students at Anaheim High School. The parents of two teenage daughters, they chose a home in Placentia about 13 years ago.

"The decision to move here wasn't a difficult one," the candidate recalls this week. "We liked what we saw in Placentia. It was a small community. Everybody was always very friendly and helpful. We liked the school system."

The Birchers were involved in no time...in Jaycees...Boys Club...commissions...and park bonds.

For present day Placentia, Bircher will be looking to the development of industry to bring some economic relief to the city's soon to be straining budget.

"We're always looking at fixed amounts of dollars and we have to be sure we're getting 99.9 cents out of every dollar expended. That's what

Cost Of Bradford House Depends On Its Use

Saving and maintaining the Bradford House and the park around it, will cost anywhere from $44,700 to $195,000 for development, with annual operating costs between $8,250 and $18,431.

This and other information will be considered at a public meeting to be held at the Bradford House, 136 East

Anti-Truancy Program Inaugurated

The Placentia Police Department has initiated a new anti-truancy program, which is designed to reduce burglaries, Police Chief Norman Traub said this week.

The new effort is being supported by funds from the California Youth Authority, the chief explained.

Involved in the program is a Community Service Aide, whose primary duties will be to assist the department and the Placentia Unified School District in reducing truancies.

Chief Traub said that it is hoped the concentrated effort on truancy reduction will result in a corresponding reduction in the city's burglaries.

The subscription price of The Placentia Courier will advance from $5 to $6 on March 31, 1976, it was announced this week. Present and new subscribers, however, can renew or take out new subscriptions at the current rate.

Palm Drive at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 7, to which Placentia citizens are invited.

Mrs. Clairee Tynes, well known Placentia resident, who has sought specific information on possible costs involved in the preservation of the home, said that the meeting will be attended by members of the Placentia Founders Society and the Placentia Art Association, in which individuals have shown interest in the home.

There also will be a period of questions and answers.

Possible figures on the cost of saving and using the period home, which was the family residence of Albert S. Bradford, founder of the city of Placentia, were released this week by Richard Samp, the city's Director of Recreation and Maintenance Services.

Considered in the expansive document are a variety of uses.

Prospect Ed Jones Concerned Citizen

If city council candidate Ed. V. Jones shows an unusual interest in Placentia's industry and construction, it is not without reason.

The 6 foot three-inch Placentia resident, has spent 28 years of his life "in the construction business and working virtually all over the world on large industrial processing types of plants."

"The last project that I built was an $87 million project that was built in Jamaica West Indies for Revere Aluminum Company and I was the project manager," he recalls. "I had the responsibility from the design, through all the criteria, through to completion and to operation."

But at 49, Jones has become a confirmed Placentian. He not only owns a home here where he is raising his three youngest children (he has three married and five grandchildren). But he has recently completed his own industrial plant in the La Jolla section of Placentia.

"The building alone is 10,280 square feet on one acre of property," Jones outlines.

Out of this he is operating the largest electrical supply business in the United States for export only and he is currently in the process of organizing an international construction company to emanate from the Placentia facility.

Jones, whose 6 foot three inch frame stands out in a crowd, just seems to get elected to things. A resident of Placentia since 1970, he has been president of the Fullerton Lions Club and for two years was in charge of the Lions annual Community Fair, a large operation held in the city of Fullerton.

Although a protestant, he is currently president of St. Catherine's Military Guild for the academy.

His neighbors have been urging him to run for the city council and this time he agreed that he would. His nomination papers are unique in that signatures on his behalf are largely up and down the street.

Jones' running for the city council, however, was prompted by some special concerns connected with his home, his family and his business.

"I feel that being a resident for Board Isolates Problem-- It's Surmounting the Obstacle!

Placentia Unified School District Trustees couldn't decide recently, whether the obstacle was in the course or in the content.

The discussion at the board meeting was over a proposal by Frank Passarella, PUSD physical education specialist to build an obstacle course at Van Buren Elementary School.

Trustee Jean Pappas began the controversy with "you are going to start referring to this all over the district as an obstacle course... couldn't we come up with a better name than an obstacle?"

Her next quandary was over the reference to upper and lower body building aspects of the course.

"Is there a difference in body strengths we are trying to build in boys and girls?" she began delicately.

Assured that there was, Mrs.

Pappas was still unsure that she was being understood... "You don't feel that this type of activity is going to suddenly develop...uh...shoulders abnormally in these girls?" she agonized.

She was again reassured.

But the name still hadn't been settled. Someone suggested "a competitive course." Another voice: "Could we call this a 'Fitness Development Course' and then everybody would feel better about it?"

Former Athletic Director and now Superintendent of Schools John Tynes could stand it no longer.

"It's an obstacle course," he said with a touch of authority. "It's been an obstacle course for over 100 years!"

And with that a vote was taken. Unanimous, 5-0. The obstacle course had overcome all obstacles.

Ed Jones

[Continued from Page 1] the past six years and in addition being a business man and locally located that I can see a lot more needs and requirements than any other candidate on the ballot," he assesses.

"I'm educated in electrical engineering (in Texas). However, I have over a period of years become as knowledgeable in mechanical construction, in concrete, and civil construction as in electrical. Anything in construction, I have done it."

On campaigning issues: "I feel that one of the first things that should be concentrated on is the development of our industrial lands," Jones says with some firmness.

"When you start promoting industry, you are going to bring more tax revenues into the city."

His concern is for the older sections of the city and downtown Placentia... "nothing more than a big fire trap. It is just deteriorating to nothing. I think that one of the important things we should keep in mind is to keep building our areas up instead of letting some of them go down."

Jones is against high density. Increasing density loads schools, the candidate points out. "I'm certainly not in favor of making it any higher than what we already have in our master plan."

"I don't see why we have to take such a small area and compact so many people into it. We don't want another New York."

"We should very definitely not let our taxes go up. I believe we can maintain the tax level even with inflation. I think there are ways of doing it."

On city salaries: "I think that city employees are entitled to the same money that private industry pays but they should have to work the same as private industry. I'm not saying they should get more than private industry pays."

"I think it's a shame and disgrace that we don't have a fire department."

Jones, who has been a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers AFL-CIO for 30 years, states: "I've been in a lot of labor negotiations and I've been in management for 28 years. I was always on the opposite side of the negotiating table from the union. And they'll take everything and anything they can get. But you have to have a backbone to stand up and say 'you're not going to get it.' They only have one thing to sell and that's their time."

About the city council: "It's a very unthankful job. It doesn't pay anything. I don't see that there are any benefits other than being able to help the city. As far as the $20 a month they pay, they can have it back."

On city council expenses, Jones believes that anyone claiming personal expenses should turn them in fully documented. "The Internal Revenue Service requires that and that is the only system I would support."

On other subjects: "We should have equal treatment of every citizen in the city of Placentia regardless of color, creed, or any other thing and we have not been getting it."

"Something has to be done on an organized basis. I don't know exactly what it is but the only way you're going to find out is to work with the people."

"Why can't the south part of the city be brought up to a decent living standard? Why are these people living the way they are? They're not really wanting to. They would like to have better. They need some parks."

Concerning industrial development and taxes: "Businesses of Placentia should be given equal recognition because the business people are the ones bringing the dollars into Placentia. That's where the taxes are coming from. On my piece of property, last year's taxes on that vacant lot were $800. Today, since I built that building, the taxes are over $3,000 on the same piece of property."

Chapman Avenue: "Chapman Avenue is past. I couldn't say anything until I studied it. I've heard a lot of comment. Everybody is opposed to the way it went. It would not be right for me to criticize what somebody else has done since I haven't done a study. Maybe I would have done the same thing."

Bradford House: "I don't think I should take a stand because it's on the same ballot. To me we should preserve some of the history in the city of Placentia. And if the Bradford House is the one to preserve to show the past history of the city, then we

[Continued from Page 1] to do; whereby we could tell the private vendor what to do...how it should be done."

"I think there is pro and con on both sides. I'm concerned about the level of salaries that is now coming out of City Hall. If we're paying $25,000 a year for a body...we should be getting $25,000 a year in return...either in expertise or administrative techniques, cost savings, budget improvements, program improvements."

"I believe in the merit system when it comes to paying people. I think if the person does the job and achieves the goal he has set out to do, that person is worth every penny you're paying him."

Bircher does not see higher taxes. "It's living within your means."

"This is a very difficult time from the labor relations standpoint. The present circumstances should tell us that our fire department was not operating efficiently...so we have to learn from the county on how they operate that efficiently and provide all those services for that amount of money."

"People have gotten the idea that government...all forms of government, have all kinds of money. But who is government? It's you and I and every other taxpayer in town. From that standpoint, people have to readress their thinking."

"I think all the cities are going to have work a lot closer than they ever have in the past. What we're seeing is the city growing older and the land developing. Once we're ultimately developed, what do we with the planning department?

Chapman Avenue: "I made my decision on Chapman Avenue on a pure planning standpoint. I think the council made a proper decision on Chapman Avenue on their level."

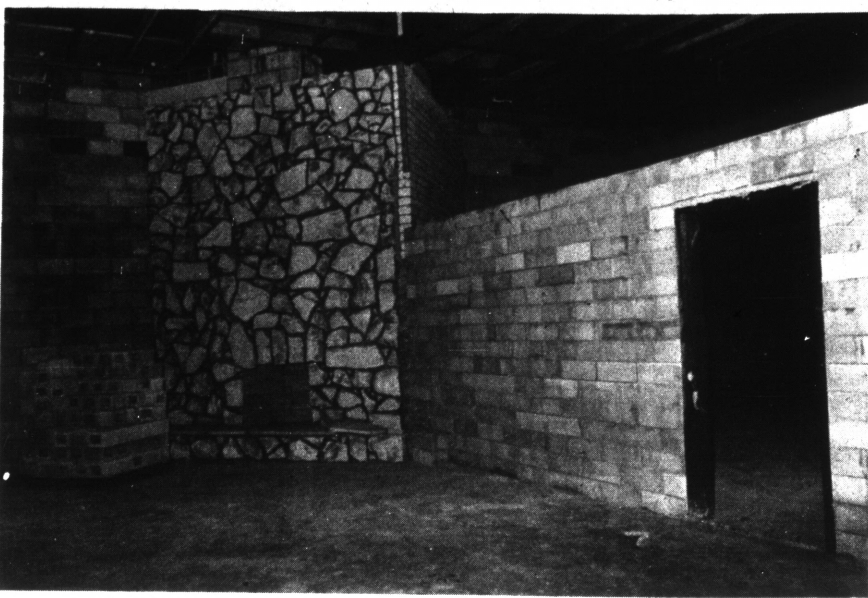

Utility tax: "I'm totally against converting utility tax for anything than what was originally intended and that was for capital improvements only. To take that utility tax and use it for everyday operating expenses, is totally in error."

The widening of Chapman Avenue is a capital improvement. From the pure planning standpoint, I think the elimination of the 13 parcels on the south side of the street was the best way to go. It would give us a green belt. I think that was one of the toughest decisions that I ever had to make on the planning commission...Chapman Avenue."

If there was a better way to go...if there was a better proposal made for the realignment of Chapman Avenue, I certainly would consider it. I wouldn't press for rehash of it, but I think if somebody came up with a more feasible solution, then I certainly wouldn't have a deaf ear. I'd listen to that. I hate to see part of the park go away."

Bircher, who attended California State University at Long Beach and is an industrial arts education major, is 39, a protestant. His main hobby is operating his ham radio equipment.

Among other concerns he shares in the city of Placentia is the status of the older sections of the city. "How do we keep these as a viable part of the community?" Speaking of the SPECTACULAR FIREPLACES front two rooms of the new section of the Boys Club Building. This section was planned as a reading room, student lounge and game room, according to executive director Butch Perrott. The Elks are seeking to use it for club meetings and the back room as a bar. The lease discussed is for three years with an option on a fourth. Elk labor is putting up interior walls, it is reported.

Boys Club Use

Referring to the Boys Club board, Rylance said "They have their problems raising money and getting the community interested. This is really going to be a move in that direction. I'm concerned about mixed uses also but I look at the reality. The reality of having a common wall with the Boys Club. I look down on Main Street and I see youth organizations on that street where they have a common wall with a beer bar. It's all up and down there."

Rylance did not specify what organizations he had in mind.

The attorney, however, complained about "heavy conditions." These included planting a tree, repairing a broken sidewalk at the Boys Club. "I don't think it's fair to impose those conditions on the Elks."

"To say we could only be open from 6 p.m. in the evening to 2 at night, I think that would be an undue restriction on us. I don't think we would want to have a lodge under those conditions."

The request for the use permit for on site sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages was recommended for denial by city staff and opposed by a spokesman from the Placentia Police Department.

"The Police Department strongly recommends that the Elks Club application for use of the Placentia Boys' Club be refused on the fact that allowing the consumption of alcoholic beverages in a place designed for and frequented by should. I can't say I'm for it or against it. Until you've studied something you can't evaluate it."

When Jones is not involved in his businesses, he has an extensive hobby of restoring Model A Fords. "I have 18 of them that I'm going to restore. We're just now in the final stages of completing the first. It is an identical brand new Model A just like it came off the assembly line. It's one of the very few left in the United States. It's the original Ford convertible the Cabriolet."

substandard lots: "We've got to come up with a way so that when a guy wants to put a new house on his property, he can come in and do it without a whole big rigmarole."

"I don't see how young people can afford to buy a house here...Not everybody can afford to live in a $50,000 house."

"I don't think we have too much City Hall. I think they made a good decision on the five acres. They made a mistake in not better informing the people on what was going on. It was all done open and above board in my mind but the people were not informed."

"I think we have to control our growth by controlling our density. We're about developed. The 600 acres we have to go is it!"

On city council expense accounts: "I think that policy should be reviewed. And I think each person when they serve in an elected position, should serve with one thing in mind and that is to provide their experience to the community."

"The expense policy should be reviewed and there should be some stringent regulations established on it. I can't think of any reason for a Placentia city councilman to have a telephone credit card."

On policy: "You can't look at Bob Bircher as a guy who is going to go in there and start wielding an ax and heads are going to roll. I think we have the personnel to provide the services. I think we need some policy alignments from the city council."

juveniles would be inconsistent with the intent of the laws of the State of California relating to juveniles and with the policies of the Placentia Police Youth Service Bureau providing for the protection of youth and the prevention of delinquent behavior by juveniles in the community."

"While this argument is not intended to imply that the Elks Club would actually create any of the unhealthy or illegal circumstances mentioned, the possibility of accidental negative impact on youth seems unnecessarily high. The philosophical inconsistency might also have a negative impact on the Boys Club itself, as parents might recognize the potential problems in the situation and withdraw their children from participation."

Pete Rivera Jr., a field representative for the Boys Clubs of America, who works out of the national organization's regional office in North Hollywood, said that he had been at the Placentia Boys Club recently. Rivera said he had been told about the Elks working in the facility "but we were not advised about the bar."

"There is no Boys Club in America that serves alcohol on its premises on a regular basis," Rivera stated.

The city planning staff at its presentation before the planning commission explained that there would be some overlapping of hours in the use of the large uncompleted Boys Club facility by the boys attending and members of the Elks Club.

"Based on our investigation, we are recommending that this use not be approved."

The physical set up of the building, which is completed in front, but not in back, would be for the boys of the club to use the front section also known as Chapman Hall. This part contains a large meeting room with pool tables and other games and a section with rest rooms and a kitchen.

The adjoining building would be used by the Elks Club and would be adapted to their needs with a large meeting area and bar area. Restrooms would be added to this by the Elks although Boys Club building plans do not call for them. In three or four years this section would be completed by the Elks, according to the agreement, and then returned for Boys Club use.

The compensation to the Boys Club appeared to be $400 a month but one spokesman said that part of that was in materials and labor; another stated materials, with labor donated and another said there would be $150 cash a month involved with the rest in improvements to the building.

Valencia Orators Win Prizes

Two Valencia High School students won first places in the Bicentennial Youth Debate held Sunday at Independence Hall at Knott's Berry Farm and another a third place as the first place winners go on to regional competition.

Winning first in persuasive speaking and $1,000 bond was Randy Oliver. Tom Moynihan won first in extemporaneous speaking and $100. Steve Olivier placed third with a .25 prize in the Lincoln-Douglas debate.

Further competition under the sponsorship of the government will include speakers from California, Idaho, Alaska, Hawaii, Oregon, Washington, and Nevada with prizes ranging from $1,500 to $6,000 for first.

Bradford House

Project D would be similar with activity restricted to the lower floor. Development costs for this use would be $79,500 and maintenance $14,621.

Project E would leave the house standing as a landmark, but it would not be furnished nor utilized. The figures for E are development, $44,700 and for operating costs $9,471.

What it would cost in tax rates, based on estimates, would range from nothing for Projects A and E; 15 cents for Project B; 8 cents for Project C and 3.5 cents for Project D. Placentia's present tax rate is $1.22 per $100 assessed valuation.

Estimates provided, necessary to bring the residence into compliance with uniform building codes regarding public usage would range from $72,600 to $107,800. The parking lot is estimated at $8,737.25.

A suggestion made at Thursday morning's Placentia Chamber of Commerce-City Council breakfast was the Chamber of Commerce might offer a proposal whereby it might be able to utilize a part of the premises, but no specific ideas were discussed.

"Should tax revenues be used to preserve and maintain the Bradford House?" is the question voters will be asked on the ballot April 13.

Emilie Disen Awarded

Emilie Disen, journalism teacher at Valencia High School in Placentia, has been named Outstanding High School Journalism Educator in the state by the California Newspaper Publishers Association (CNPA).

Mrs. Disen has been teaching journalism and English at Valencia for 25 years and founded the student newspaper, El Tigre, in 1957, and the school literary magazine in 1965.

Her students have won 18 journalism sweepstakes trophies, and Valencia is the only school in the Orange County Journalism Education Association to retire the sweepstakes trophy by winning three years in a row. The school boasts two such trophies.

A native of Norway, Mrs. Disen came to the United States when she was 9. She is a product of Fullerton schools, majoring in journalism at Fullerton Junior College.

She holds her bachelor's degree from UCLA and her master's degree from California State University, Fullerton, where she has been a parttime journalism instructor.

Professional honors earned during her teaching career at Valencia include being named a Dow Jones Newspaper Fund Fellow in 1970, winning one of 35 Teacher-of-the-Year Awards given by the Fund in 1973, and earning one of three national medals of merit given by the National Journalism Education Association in 1974.

She has served two consecutive two-year terms as president of the Orange County JEA.

Mrs. Disen's former students are working in journalism positions throughout the area. Frank Chavez is teaching journalism at Esperanza High School; Leland Pound is editor-in-chief of the News-Times Publications; and Andrea Rivera Cano is a producer at KOCE-TV.

Senior Dinners

The twice monthly dinner buffets at Placentia-Linda Hospital have been overwhelmingly attended by the Seniors in the area. 110 dinners were served on February 18th; 12 employees and hospital Guild members volunteered to help serve, bus dishes and do general cleanup and loved it.

JoAnn McCraw, of the Medical Records Department at the hospital, played the guitar and sang folk songs to the delight of all.

The dinners are served on the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 4:30-6 p.m. at a nominal charge of $1.50 per person.

In and Around Yorba Linda

by Judy Goffin

Dorothy and Vince McDonough recently returned from an eight day trip to Italy. Acting as host and hostess for building contractors, guests of General Electric, the McDonough's had a grand time. They stayed in Rome for most of their journey and Dorothy had the great pleasure of having an audience with the Pope and visiting many areas of the Vatican that are not usually open to the public. They were also fortunate to travel to Florence and saw the many wonderful art pieces done by Michelangelo. Dorothy said the trip was a dream and it is hard to get back to everyday family living.

Provisional members of the Yorba Linda Service League hosted a luncheon for members last month. Special attraction and entertainment for the day was a graphologist which delighted the members.

Visiting Yorba Linda from Bellevue, Washington, are Isobel and Fielder Beall. They are visiting with Isobel's sister, Lorna Urganhart of Lake Park. Isobel attended the Yorba Linda/Placentia Soroptimist meeting as she is a life member. The Bealls' may be moving down this way and were checking out the area.

People who are willing to work at it could probably keep all their teeth all their life, without cavities or bleeding gums.

Virtually all dental disease is caused by the combination of germs with saliva to form a transparent sticky coating called "plaque". Refined sugars and carbohydrates, plus plaque, create acids that attack tooth enamel. Thorough brushing and use of dental floss can keep plaque to a minimum while fluoridated water makes enamel more resistant to attack. Special dyes are available that stain plaque red, revealing traces that require more thorough cleaning.

New Low Tar Entry Packs Taste Of Cigarettes Having 60% More Tar.

'Enriched Flavor'™ idea succeeds—increases taste of new 9 mg. tar MERIT without the usual increase in tar.

You can write today for a study conducted by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion for Philip Morris showing new MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than five current leading low tar cigarettes.

Brands having up to 60% more tar than MERIT!

The reason is 'Enriched Flavor.' An extraordinary taste find developed and perfected after years of research at our Richmond Research Center.

And it's only in MERIT. At 9 mg., lower in tar than 98% of all cigarettes sold today.

If you smoke—you'll be interested.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, tested at home*.

The results were conclusive.

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

RAYDRA INTERIORS

"Peggy's Pointers"

When you decorate your living room, you have several very basic questions to ask yourself.

First, how much do you plan to use this room? Is it going to be an off-limits-to-children-strictly - for-company type of room, or do you plan to make it the kind of room to be used for reading, listening to music or just a place to sit and be quiet? It seems that our California lifestyle is making living rooms become more like the old-fashioned parlors of yesteryear, rather than the gathering places they used to be.

Once you determine the function of the room, then ascertain the number of people you will normally need to seat. A good rule of thumb is you will need to seat as many people as your dining area will hold, plus room for at least two more.

In planning seating, also bear in mind that no more than two people will want to sit on a sofa at the same time. It is good to plan for some chairs in addition to sofas. In crowded or small rooms, ottomans placed under a sofa table also add extra seating without taking up much room.

An egg beater cleans easily if you soak it in cold water before washing as usual.

Small children who hate to wash their faces might enjoy a shaving brush. Work up a good lather with a bar of soap and let them do it that way.

A cornstarch-and-water paste will remove most grease spots from wall-paper. Let stand on the spot until dry, then brush off.

Onion odor on your hands? Wash them with milk, or rub with raw potato skin.

To arrange long-stemmed flowers in a wide-mouth vase, crisscross strips of cellophane tape across the top.

U.S. Army Colonel James Kendall Tuffree and his wife Carolina settled in the area in 1872 when her father deeded the 662 acre Rancho Buena Vista to them as a wedding present.

This portion of land is now bounded by Kraemer Boulevard, Golden Avenue, Placentia Avenue and Palm Drive. The Col. J. K. Tuffree Junior High School is located within that boundary. It seemed fitting to the Friends of the Library to offer a few of the rarer gems to that school to preserve for posterity.

El Dorado Cagers Win First Round

REBOUND BATTLE--Neff's #32 and El Dorado's Rory Lovell battle for a rebound in Friday night's CIF action. Watching are Hawks Jim Boyd and Blake Withers. A foul was called on Neff.

by Brian Hilderbrand

Opening CIF competition with a 57-50 win over Neff, the El Dorado Golden Hawk basketball team has advanced to the second round of playoff action.

The two-time CIF defending champs were scheduled to play Palo Verde, Desert Valley League Champ, Tuesday, March 2, at the Hawks' gym. If El Dorado is victorious there, they will play the winner of the Rowland-Alta Loma contest also played Tuesday.

El Dorado capitalized on Neff's turnovers, 18 in all, to keep ahead of the Trojan's throughout most of the game. Neff only lead briefly in the first period, 7-4, but soon relinquished that as the Hawks went on to take a 14-9 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The second quarter saw the Trojans come up from a 16-11 deficit to tie the game at 27-27 at the close of the first half.

Blake Withers, ALL-CIF guard in 1975, hit on his first two attempts in the third period that gave El Dorado the lead. Neff tied the game, however, at 31-all at the mid-way point in the third quarter. ED's Rob Linn hit on a short jumper to give El Dorado the lead for good.

Withers picked up 16 of his 23 total points in the second half. His 10-point performance in the final period put the game away for El Dorado.

Rory Lovell, 6'7" center, put in 14 points and grabbed eight rebounds in the win. Jim Babcock, Jim Boyd and John Heller each had six points for the Hawks. Heller, brought up from the JV team for the playoffs, impressed many fans, as well as his coach, Nash Rivera.

High point-man for the Trojans was Craig Kulonis with 16. Both Ted Snively and Scott Thorpe had 10 points for Neff.

The Trojans shot 21 for 36 off the floor for 58 per cent, and 8 for 12 from the line. El Dorado shot 55 per cent off the floor, going 24-44, and was 9 for 11 from the free throw line.

The Hawks improved their season record to 20-6 with the victory. Neff ends their season with a 16-9 record. ED has stretched their winning streak to six games.

If El Dorado gets past the Palo Verde Yellow Jackets on Tuesday, they will play again on Friday.

Coach Rivera commented that "The first playoff game is always the toughest." If this is true, and the Hawks play the same caliber as they did against Neff, they stand a good chance of becoming the first CIF-SS team to win three consecutive titles.

Hawks Win CIF Wrestling

Four qualified Golden Hawk wrestlers walked off with the CIF Southern Section Wrestling Crown Saturday, throwing them strongly into state CIF competition to be held Friday and Saturday at California Polytechnic College, Pomona.

Coming out with a first place in the 128-pound class was Keith Iwanaga who outlasted Ricardo Tafoya of Fountain Valley with a 12-8 tally.

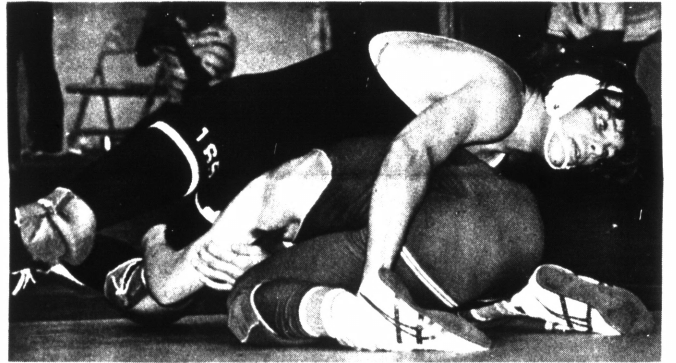

Greg Creveling at 168 pounds took a second.

Kevin Iwanaga at 98 pounds and Scott Speck at 193 made several points but did not get clear to the finals.

The Saturday event was held at Marina High School, Huntington Beach.

El Dorado came in first with 39 points; West Torrance next with 37; Fountain Valley third and Cerritos fourth.

HANGING ON--Rosemead's Jerry Lovell hangs on to Greg Creveling's leg to prevent Creveling from rolling him over in the 165 pound class at Saturday's CIF wrestling. Creveling racked up the victories and points for the Golden Hawks as he went to finals. He finished second and earned himself a berth in the state finals next weekend.

DOWN BUT NOT OVER--Scott Speck keeps Hawthorne's Kurt Morelock on the mat but finds it difficult to turn him over. The Hawk won by decision on the match, lost the second one to move down to consolation. He then pinned an opponent before losing another tough match to take him out of further competition. He gave the team several points before being eliminated.
